FOOTBALL

The football game played here on Saturday last between Bellevue and Frank was one of the most evenly contested games ever seen around this district. The game opened fast and furious but the wind blew so strong that the players could not control the ball perfectly. Bellevue had most of the play in the first half and were awarded a penalty from which Hesketh scored and half time arrived with the score one to all in favour of Bellevue. After the restart Frank had the most of the play for about twenty minutes during which time L. Aalam and R. Petrie scored for them. Great excitement prevailed when Bellevue was awarded another penalty, but alas! the ball took a notion to go over the bar and not between the sticks. Bellevue at this time were pressing very hard and were rewarded by Brownrigg who scored with a beautiful shot. Bellevue continued to press till the finish and a very inter-

Experimenting Cost $100 $1.00 Paid for the Cure

Rheumatism Disappeared When the Poisons Were Removed From the System by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY AND LIVER PILLS

Experiments are sometimes necessary and almost always expensive. It is usually wise to let others do the experimenting and profit by their experience.

When it is a matter of regulating the liver, kidneys and bowels and driving out of the system the poisons which cause rheumatism, backache, numbness and other pains and aches, experience has proven that Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are the most effective treatment available.

They are different from ordinary kidney medicines in that they regulate the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys, and in this way get at the very source of trouble.

Let others experiment if they will. This letter shows what experimenting cost one man, and many have had somewhat similar experience.

Mr. James Clarke, Melstone, Sask.

Our Language

"He rendered his part of the programme well," he said to his partner at the musical.

"Huh!" He might overbear you. He's a pork packer," she whispered.—Buffalo Express.

BABY'S TERRIBLE ECZEMA

Hands Tied to Prevent Scratching.

Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, but Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Shas, Lever, Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says: "My baby's head and face were completely covered with a terrible itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was a great trial to me at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off by the disease."

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her with no permanent good. We had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good."

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk had effected a complete cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 30 Guise street, Hamilton, is quite an eloquent in her praise. She says: "Zam-Buk cured my boy of boils and eruptions when he was so bad that he had to be taken to the hospital."

"I had prepared, and mothers through, at the land should always keep it."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, teething, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse imitations.

A man doesn't mind being bossed by his wife if he isn't.

Getting Ready

Jones (at the telephone)—Hello, Mary. I just called you up to say that as soon as I get home I'm going to discharge that cook. She's no good.

Mrs. Jones—All right, John. By the way, stop at some drug store coming home and get some arnica, some liniment and a package of court plaster. I have plenty of lint and splints.—St. Paul Dispatch.

"I don't like to see a woman play for money," said the bridge whist player.

"You don't! Why do you go to the theatre then?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It can be got at small cost at any drug store or general dealer's, and it will afford relief before a doctor can be called.

"I suppose," began the inquiring summer visitor engagingly, "that the wealth in this part of New Hampshire is in the soil?"

The native regarded the shining blade of his scythe reflectively.

"I reckon it's," he mildly assented, "I don't know anybody hereabouts that ever got any out of it."—Youth's Companion.

No better cigarette the world over than

WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The Origin of the Old Saying, "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul."

The greatest landmark in London is doubtless St. Paul's. Its massive outline, and lofty towering dome, whether seen from the busy street or the quiet river constitute a characteristic feature and form a picture which out of countless spectacles and the blur of seemingly endless crowds, is ever to be taken away with them as the predominant impression of the greatest city in the world.

It is, however, to Westminster Abbey that the tourist naturally turns when he desires to see a standing embodiment of antiquity and it is the greatest of the British Empire. It is more than 600 years older than St. Paul's. Founded in 1083 by the generation of King Edward the Confessor, it is the following year the coronation of Norman William and the establishment of the present royal line. Filled with the tombs of kings and poets, warriors and statesmen, it is a place of pilgrimage for the people alike to the memory and the living and arouses an interest that goes on increasing with the passage of time.

Yet says a writer in The Westminster Post, of the hundreds of thousands of foreigners who visit Westminster annually, it is no wonder that they are not in the least aware of the proper style and title of the venerable pile. Nor is this strange, for the British people themselves have in the long lapse of ages and in the vicissitudes which the great London Abbey has known, forgotten the old St. Paul's. There are probably but few Englishmen who could be reminded that the full title of Westminster Abbey is the "Collegiate Church, or Abbey of St. Peter."

Stay who adopted the opinion generally held that the proverb "Robbing Peter to pay Paul" took its origin at the dissolution of the abbey estates about 1530 from their original purpose, to the benefit of the poor. The old St. Paul's, however, reasonably be doubted, for the saying "Crucifying Paul to please Peter" is traced back to the twelfth century, and the phrase "Robbing St. Peter to clothe St. Paul" is found in Latin and in the same local occurrence in early French.

The form of the expression now in vogue was solidified and rendered current by the agitation started in the city of London proper, and from the city of Westminster, where the abbey stands — that the great original St. Paul's should be replaced by a new one. To deprive the abbey, in favor of the younger rival, of the distinction, enhancing the prestige of the greatest statesman that in her rosy island story, England has produced, was to rob Peter to pay Paul. The great London Abbey has ever since had an abiding place in the English language.

Queen Mother's Kindness.

Lord Tennyson, the late poet laureate, used to relate a story showing the thoughtfulness of Queen Alexandra. It was on the occasion of a voyage with Mr. Gladstone, and many distinguished people were on board. Tennyson, as related by a friend of his, read, "The Grandmother" on board because the Princess of Wales asked for it. "I read," said Tennyson, "in a cabin on deck. The princess sat close to me at one side and a young lady whom I didn't know on the other. The wind came through an open window, and the princess, who was a friend of mine, said, 'Put on your hat,' but I said I ought, if possible, to make myself bolder than ever before so many royalties. She said again, 'Put on your hat,' so I did, and I heard afterwards that the King of Denmark's court fool, who was in the background (they really kept a court fool), remarked 'He may be laureate, but he has not learned court manners.' When I was done the ladies praised me and I patted the unknown one on the back by way of reply, and presently I found that she was the Empress of Russia."

"Had you any talk with the Czar?"

"Hardly any. He said he couldn't speak English. Perhaps he was disgusted at my patting his wife on the back. His head was up in the cabin ceiling as he walked about below."

Gypsy Wordless Language.

To communicate with one another, gypsies now use letters—and they use the telegraph, too, when necessary—especially in this country. But the modern Romany also follows the "patter" of his forefathers, tracing the footprints of his friends on the road by the same method employed by his ancient prototype, reading directions where no words are written as clearly as the gorgio does a roadside signboard. But the pattern can be read by the gypsy only—it is hidden by the secret, although it may be in plain sight, as a signboard is open and public. The pattern may be formed of sticks or stones or grass, placed cross fashion at the turning of roads in such manner that only a gypsy would instantly notice and understand. To him it means much; first of all the direction taken by Romany peddlers.

Birth Taxes in England.

The reign of Henry VIII. should have been a good one for the barbers. Men were then taxed for wearing beards and the tax was graduated according to the social standing of the wearer. A sheriff at Canterbury paid three shillings and fourpence for the privilege of wearing whiskers.

Queen Elizabeth was even more stringent. She decreed a tax on every beard of over two weeks' growth. At one time there was a tax levied on births, a sliding scale being adopted. The child of a duke cost his father $150 in 1668, while the tax levied on a shilling on the child of a commoner. Widowers and bachelors also were taxed.

Has His Own Value

Get to the deepest significance of a man, and you will understand that it is himself and has his own value. Let him leave his task undone, his word unsaid, and undone and unsaid they will ever remain. This is the proud thought that inspires a famous passage in George Eliot's "Stradivarius."

Naldo: What were God at fault for violins, thou absent?

Stradivarius: Yes! God were at fault for violins.

If my hand lacked, I should rob God, since

He alone is fullest good.

Leaving a blank note of violins.

He could not make Antonio Stradivari's violins.

Without Antonio.

—Great Thoughts.

The Quality of Mercy

See the woman. Why is the woman's hat trimmed with a nestful of little birds with the mother bird brooding them?

It is because the woman is merciful. The woman wished to trim her hat with the mother bird alone, but rather than to leave the birdlings starve she trimmed it with the whole family.

Must it not feel lovely to be merciful like that?

Then There Was a Hush

"It's easy to see," said Mr. Blower, "which side of the house the boys got his temper from."

"And also easy," replied Mr. Blower, "to see where he gets his inability to control it."

Then She Understood

Birdie McInnis (to her best young man)—Did you meet father last night as you were going out?

"No. We were both going in the same direction, only was about two feet ahead."

POOR JOAN OF ARC.

Some Hitches That Have Hampered Pageants.

If pageants have done nothing else, they have given rise to a new proverb. That "Every pageant has its hitch" has developed into quite a by-word, and is a statement anyone who has been connected with these twentieth-century innovations will readily corroborate.

Only the other day the Army Pageant contributed its quota. As Joan of Arc, Mrs. Hohler had just finished leading her French knights at the charge, and was about to pass out of the exit, when the large white horse on which she was seated plunged, braining the rider heavily to the ground. Her fall was made much worse by the weight of the armor she was wearing and the heavy banner which she carried. Her face cut, and considerably bruised, she had to be carried off the ground in an ambulance.

One of the incidents in the Bath Pageant last year, reached an unexpected pitch of "realism." The Akomak scene a Saxon had to rush up the temple steps, be stabbed by the traitor, and then fall to the bottom of the steps. A slip caused the player to strike his head violently and he fell, rendering him temporarily unconscious; and what was thought to be an especially clever piece of acting was warmly applauded by the spectators.

Rain is the great bugbear of the pageant-makers, and the first performance of the Ilford Pageant had to be postponed owing to the downpour. Distinctions of class, creed, and country were forgotten while the early Briton, the haughty Roman, and the medieval courtier exchanging views on the unkindness of Fate, and the jester forgot to smile and the priest forgot to be solemn. Queen Elizabeth, in the glory of pearls, ruffe, and splendid garments, had to be unceremoniously tossed into a four-wheeled cab; and the harder knight of St. John donned a waterproof over his armor, and strode home.

At a local pageant in Norfolk, however, the players defied the elements. Despite a heavy downpour, they went through the whole performance under umbrellas, the spectacle of St. George and the Dragon in mortal combat, each holding a "broly" over his head, providing not the least entertaining feature.

Water also played an important part in an unheeded incident at the Oxford Pageant, when, three years ago. The president of the Oxford University Dramatic Society, while in the process of dressing Friar Bacon, had to leave the scene on a mediæval motor-car resembling a horse-drawn carriage. The driver, behind the stand, crossed the arena at full speed. On making the second circuit, he failed to stop in time, and the car was recovered from the deep water a little later.

Probably no pageant has excited more interest or looked ominously like being stopped at K's last moment than the Coventry Pageant. Indignation was aroused by the decision that La Milo should represent Lady Godiva, clad only in fishbones, and a transparent gauze cloak. Residents were appalled at the news, and declared that the procession must not be tolerated; while the mayor threatened to resign. And, in the end, La Milo wore a dress no less than that used by most horsewomen, together with a long-haired wig, weighing over 2½ pounds, to cover it!

The "Pink Pyjama Girl."

This was the name bestowed upon that popular actress, Miss Pauline Chase, who wanted Mr. Grahame White to take her up in his aeroplane recently, when she appeared some years ago in a play called "The Liberty Bells." In the course of which a number of girls appeared in a bedroom scene dressed in nightgowns. Miss Chase, however, had always been accustomed to pyjamas, and suggested to the management that they should let her appear in pyjamas, as she might feel strange and awkward in a nightgown.

"This was agreed to," says Miss Chase, "but at the dress rehearsal when I came on in my pink pyjamas, I suddenly became, exceedingly, unconscious. So much so that I awoke on the stage, jumped into the big bed which figured in the scene, pulled the clothes over my head, and in muffled but decided tones refused to 'come out.' This quite impromptu piece of business, however, produced roars of laughter, such as are rarely heard at a dress rehearsal, and the next night I had to repeat it, when it seemed just to tickle the audience to death, and in a few days' time I was known all over the country as the 'Pink Pyjama Girl.'"

Rev. Thomas Edlison, formerly rector of High Rodding, Essex, England, recently commenced his duties as vicar of Brimstone, and in an address from the pulpit explained why he had transferred from the one to the other, thereby sacrificing about $500 a year.

He said before he knew that the Brimstone living was vacant he woke up in the middle of the night at High Rodding, and heard a strange passage of Scripture ringing in his ears. "I said this child away and nurse it for me, and I will give thee thy wages."

The vicar said he thought there must be a child in distress at High Rodding, and he searched about the parish for two days to see if there was anyone being neglected, but he could find no one. Then he received the offer of the living of Brimstone, and regarding it as a direct call from God, he accepted, as he considered it his duty to undertake the nursing of the children of Brimstone.

BAD BLOOD.

Is the direct and inevitable result of irregular or constipated bowels and clogged-up kidneys and skin. The indigestion, flatulence, and other waste matter which is allowed to accumulate poisons the blood and the whole system. Dr. Williams' Indian Root Pills act directly on the bowels, regulating them—on the kidneys, giving them tone and strength—to properly filter the blood—and on the skin, opening up the pores. HOW ONE WOMAN REGAINED HEALTH

Utterly Helpless and Friends Did Not Expect Her to Get Better

The great fame of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has led to the fact that the sick have been restored to active health and strength hundreds of people who had been told that they were incurable, and who had come to believe themselves hopeless, chronic invalids. The case of Mrs. Henry Britton, 1284 Alexander Avenue, Winnipeg, Man., adds another striking example of the power of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and yet it is difficult to express fully one's heartfelt gratitude for such a marvellous remedy, as she had been subject to severe illness and weakness for so long a time.

For years prior to our coming to Canada, and since that time up to about three years ago, my wife had been subject to severe illness from what the doctors said was chronic anemia. She was utterly and entirely helpless, and so weak that she had to be lifted in and out of bed for weeks at a time. She was utterly and entirely helpless, and so weak that she had to be lifted in and out of bed for weeks at a time.

But the doctor did not end there. The doctor said that she was a hopeless case, and that she would never get better. But she did get better. She was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She was cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Salles of almost childlike high spirit endeared the late J. L. Toole, the lifelong friend of the family to whom he knew him. On one occasion, when the author of "Some Eminent Victorians" was spending a day in the innocent adventures which Toole was a genius in originating, they went to the Tower, where they found themselves among a party of eager sight-seers in the chamber where the crown jewels are on view.

It was a woman who was explaining to the eager through the history of the crown jewels, and she was a long catalogue she said—
"This is Anne Boleyn's crown."
"Nothing! Nothing!" replied Toole. In broken accents. "Don't mind me; but the fact is, I have known the family so long."

A Wealthy Family.
William Snell, of Nar-Nar-Goon, Victoria, sends us some particulars of his family which he thinks will be of interest as showing that Victoria holds the record for family giants. Mr. Snell's family consists of two girls and a boy, and the total weight of the three is over half a ton. The eldest of the trio, is 23 years of age, and weighs 615 lbs., being the heaviest known living person in the world. Her brother, is 19 years old, and weighs 295; and Anna, the youngest of this remarkable family, is only 15, and already weighs 135. For these particulars, readers can see that Mr. Snell's tale of being able to challenge the world is no idle boast—World's News.

An Equine Epilepsy.
A Sydney delivery-van owner has a unique horse, which displays a decidedly carnivorous appetite. The animal frequently gives places to cold cooked beefsteak, mutton-chops, stale sausages, meat-pies, and sausages, together with other food, and a menu which he discusses with marked and manifest gusto. When the horse feels that he has consumed from a ham-and-bread shop, at the rear of which his stable is situated, is placed before this horse, possessing such an extraordinary equine taste, he immediately turns away from chaff and makes his way to the stable door, to partake of it—World's News.

JOHN BULL AND TRUSTS.

Americans Who Found The Tight Lits Island Too Much For Them.

What is a trade-war? It is a battle in which no blood is spilt, but which can result every bit as serious as those which occur on the actual field of war. Two great organizations are pitted against each other. Bitterly, with scarcely a sound above the scratching of a pen, the more powerful faction presses its opponent back, and upon the issues depends the welfare of thousands, many of whom have no idea that any kind of battle is being fought at all.

In the present trade-war between Lord Cowley and the Standard Oil Co., John Bull is standing in the ring with Uncle Sam, and is knocking him out. They are fighting over the great oil-fields of Mexico, and although the Standard Oil Co. have used every means in their power to outwit their English rival, and even employed spies to shadow him in New York, they have found no match. The British Oil magnate is beating them at their own game.

The Standard Oil Co. have not had many such reverses. Forty-five years ago, Mr. John D. Rockefeller realized that the oil business was a field for a syndicate, and proceeded to buy up every rival syndicate. He offered all cure through his chivalry. If they refused to sell, he either retained oil in their districts at a low price or else actually gave it away, until they were forced, through lack of business, to admit themselves beaten.

A particularly interesting trade-war was that fought recently between the E. & J. American Tobacco Co. The American Tobacco Co. was one of the most formidable syndicates in the world, and was usually in advertising its principal feature, "Battle Ace Plug," the price of which under went tremendous reductions. For the small price of fivepence, the American elastic-jawed chewer could buy a plug of "Battle Ace" three inches broad over half-an-inch thick, and a foot long.

But when these old rivals banded together, and invaded England under the banner of The American Tobacco Co., they found themselves absolutely out-clasped. By offering a bonus of $100,000 a year for four years to all the English retailers who would supply the "cigarettes, and nobody else," at a certain low figure, they hoped to get the monopoly of the tobacco custom in England. Before the temptation had spread too far, however, the English cigarette manufacturers, and formed themselves into The Imperial Tobacco Co. The latter decided on a policy of dealing with the small, independent merchants, thus themselves take to the "solid" proposition representing almost the entire tobacco interest of the British Isles. So they packed up their chest and their tools and went home.

But the matter did not end there. The tobaccoists who had been promised their big bonuses, and who had received only one half year's payment, the American Tobacco Company for the balance. At the first the Americans refused to pay, and then, when their liabilities had also ceased to exist. A test case was brought, and the company had been liquidated, their liabilities had also ceased to exist. ## Good Buying

There are still a few people who seem to cherish a long idea that every man who has "something to sell" is a sort of public nuisance, trying to impose upon the rest of humanity. In the same way they they appear to think that the one sure road to prosperity is to keep their money down in their pocket and meet the selling side of life only when it becomes absolutely necessary to make a purchase.

People who consciously or unconsciously, as displace themselves to the great world of business are almost sure to miss the mark as successful managers of their affairs, of whatever nature these affairs may be. The reason can be easily seen. Those people close their eyes rather than open them and allow bargains to be exploited by the wide-awake and thoughtful ones. The person who thinks himself too shrewd to be convinced by advertisements, is the man who, eventually allows the dealer who does not advertise to unload upon him his stock of out-of-date stuff.

Think this over and see if this is not true. And, if it is, you can see why we think we are giving our readers good kindly advice when we recommend to them a careful reading of our advertisements and to patronize the merchant who advertises. It is often the case when a merchant does not advertise that he has nothing really worth advertising.

The instigator of the Annapolis club does not say much these days.

It is becoming plainer every day that Socialism is an enemy to Christianity.

The Coal Companies in the Pass have not yet at their command all the cars they require.

The bonnet created by this family journal in our issue of September 22nd, fits the Western Star, of Newfoundland, splendidly. Poor thing. We really did not think that it would give our contemporary such a pain in the side.

Misers are a public nuisance.
They are found everywhere and we have a few in our town. Some are too mean to advertise. In fact, some are so mean that they would grow a wart on the back of their neck to save buying a collar button.

The Nelson Shields

Aged as the venerable High Commissioner of Canada is, he has a gleam in his eye that penetrates the future, and as the future of many people is wrapped up in his youthful Lord Strathcona has, of late, had the youth of Canada much in his mind.
This is seen in many ways. His benefactions to McGill and other educational bodies, his munificent gift for physical culture, and his part of a great educational movement which is just now crystallizing into definite form, by the arrival of the representative of the British and Foreign School Society in Toronto, which is to be the headquarters of the Nelson Shield Scheme, all go to prove his many-sided interest.

The shields are made from pure Nelson copper from the "Victory" and the "Houquaqua," without alloy. They are works of art. We have just received a shield made from the "Victory." On the upper corners of which are the oak and maple leaf.
In the upper centre is a representa-

Register Berths or Suffer Penalty

Within the past month it has been necessary for the local registrar of vital statistics, M. C. Bernard, of Edmonton, to take proceedings against three persons who have neglected to register births, and according to the official there are a number of further prosecutions pending, such action has been necessitated through the greatly increasing carelessness with which people are attending to their duty in regard to such matters.

According to the registry, continues the Herald, there are a very large number of children of considerable age in the city at the present time whose parents have neglected to register their births. In some cases the neglect to register increases in families is due to misunderstanding on the part of the parents, some of whom seem to think the recording of the state of the stock is a matter that devolves upon the family physician.

Most of the cases of negligence in regard to this matter have been among the English-speaking people, and, as might have been expected, among the foreigners. The various so-called foreigners have been quite punctilious in such matters, according to the registrar, and the ones who have been delinquent have been those who come from some parts of the States and from eastern Canada.

There has been some neglect on the part of newly wedded. The cupid suitors once have in some cases forgotten all about the matter of registration, and have left it to the pastor who tied the knot, and he, in turn, has forgotten, or overlooked, or something else.

The matter of deaths is less difficult to deal with. When a death occurs it is necessary for the caretaker of the cemetery in which interment is made to have a certificate of cause of death before he can permit the burial.

This, in a way, simplifies the proceedings which are required in connection with the visits of the angel Gabriel.

The provincial government has taken the matter up, and has caused public circulars to be distributed throughout the province.

Lord Nelson, on one side of which is the immortal signal, and on the other the date of Trafalgar Day. At the bottom, upon the scroll, are the following words: "Made of copper from H. M. Ship, 'Victory'."

Lord Strathcona's personal interest and generosity have given to Canada a preference in the organization of the shield scheme for schools.

Can indigestion be cured? Hundreds of thousands of people suffer from belching of gas, heartburn, sour stomach, flatulency, nausea, shortness a question daily.

And if there is no doubt dyspepsia who have been quickly and permanently

The price of Hyomei tablets is only 50

This or less or otherwise people will

He Did Not Advertise

Breathes there a man with soul so dead,

Who never to himself has said:
"My trade of late is getting bad;
I'll try another ten-inch ad!"

If there be, go knock him well,
For him no back account shall swell.

No angels watch the golden stair,
To welcome home the millionaire.

The man who never asks for trade,
By local lines, or ad displayed, Cares more for rest than worldly gain.

And patronage but gives him pain.
Tread lightly friends; let no rude sound

Disturb his solitude profound,
Here let him live in calm repose.

Unthought except by men he owes.
And when he dies, go plant him deep.

That nothing may disturb his sleep
Where no rude clamor may disturb the quiet that he loved so well.

And that the world may know its loss,
Place on a stone a wreath of moss,
And on a stone above "Here lies
A fossil, who did not advertise."

Houseless in a chaff subject to scorn Is a indication of the approach of the jaws. If Chamberlain's Cough the only is given at once or even after the cough cough up cured, it will prevent the attack. Contains no poisonous or deadly ingredients.

Experimenting Cost $100 $100 Paid for the Cure

Rheumatism Disappeared When the Poisons Were Removed From the System by DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Experiments are sometimes necessary and almost always expensive. It is usually wise to let others do the experimenting and profit by their experience.

When it is a matter of regulating the liver, kidneys and bowels and driving out of the system the poisons which cause rheumatism, backache, lameness and other pains and aches, experience has proven that Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills are the most effective treatment available.

They are different from ordinary kidney medicines in that they regulate the liver and bowels, as well as the kidneys, and in this way get at the very source of trouble.

Let others experiment if they will. This letter shows what experimenting cost one man, and many have had somewhat similar experience.

Mr. James Clarke, Melville, Sask.

"Hush! He might overhear you. He's a pork packer," she whispered—Buffy Express.

Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills

Hands Tied to Prevent Scratching.

Five Doctors Failed to Relieve, but Zam-Buk Worked a Cure.

Mrs. Shas. Lowery, Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says: "My baby's head and face were covered with a thick mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's sleep was so restless that he could not be comforted by any means. I had tried everything I could think of, but nothing seemed to do any good. I was advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were on the right track. I persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk had effected a complete cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 30 Gage street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praise. She says: "Zam-Buk cured my boy of boils and eruptions when he was so bad that he had been unable to mix with his playmates. Zam-Buk is a wonderful preparation, and mothers throughout the land should always keep a handy supply. For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetters, ringworms, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto. Refuse imitations."

Getting Ready

Jones (at the telephone)—Hello, Mary. I just called you up to say that as soon as I get home I'm going to discharge that cook. She's no good.

Mrs. Jones—All right, John. By the way, stop at some drug store coming home and get some arnica, some liniment and a package of cut plaster. I have plenty of lint and splints.—St. Paul Dispatch.

"I don't like to see a woman play for money," said the bridge whist player.

"You don't! Why do you go to the theatre then?"—Yonkers Statesman.

Very many persons die annually from cholera and kindred summer complaints, who might have been saved if proper remedies had been used. If attacked do not delay in getting a bottle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It can be got at small cost at any drug store or general dealer, and it will afford relief before a doctor can be called.

"I suppose," began the inquiring summer visitor engagingly, "that the wealth in this part of New Hampshire is in the soil?"

The native regarded the shining blade of his scythe reflectively.

"I reckon it is," he musedly assented. "I don't know anybody hereabouts that ever got any out of it."—Youth's Companion.

No better cigarette the world over than writes: "I have great pleasure in testifying to the good results I have obtained by using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. For four years I suffered from rheumatism in my shoulders and back and could not lift my arms above my head. I tried nearly all the advertised remedies. Lots of them were to be sure cures, but none of them gave me relief."

"I was then persuaded to use Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills and soon found relief. By following up this treatment a thorough cure was brought about and for six months I have been free from rheumatism. It cost me at least one hundred dollars in experimenting before using Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, which cured me at the cost of 25 cents a box."

You can be sure of definite, beneficial results when you use Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. One pill a dose, 10 cents a box. All dealers, or Edmundson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Write for free copy of Dr. Chase's Recipes.

SOFT, WHITE HANDS

May Be Obtained in One Night.
For preserving the hands as well as for preventing redness, roughness, and chapping and imparting velvet softness much desired by women Cuticura Soap and assisted by Cuticura Ointment, is believed to be superior to all other skin soaps. For those who work in corrosive liquids, or at occupations which tend to injure the hands, it is invaluable.

One Night Treatment—Bathe and soak the hands on retiring in a strong, hot, creamy lather of Cuticura Soap. Dry and anoint freely with Cuticura Ointment. Wear during the night old loose gloves, to protect the clothing from stain. For red, rough, and chapped hands, dry, fissured, itching, feverish palms, and shagreened nails with painful finger ends, this treatment is most effective.

WESTMINSTER ABBEY.

The Origin of the Old Saying, "Robbing Peter to Pay Paul."

The greatest landmark in London is doubtless St. Paul's. Its massive outline and lofty towering dome, whether seen from the busy street or the quiet river constitutes a characteristic feature and form a picture which out of countless spectacles and the blizz of scene-seekers traffic most visitors take away with them as the predominant impression of the greatest city in the world.

It is, however, to Westminster Abbey that the tourist naturally turns who he desires to see a standing embodiment of antiquity and the greatest of the British Empire. It is more than 600 years older than St. Paul's. Founded in 1063 by the gentle King, Edward the Confessor, it is the following year the coronation of Norman William and the establishment of the present royal line. Filled with the tombs of kings and poets, warriors and statesmen, of prelates and philosophers, it appeals alike to the memory and the imagination and excites an interest that goes on increasing with the flow of time.

Let us write a writer in The Washington Post, of the hundreds of thousands of foreigners who visit Westminster Abbey annually, and it is safe to say that but an infinitesimal minority is aware of the proper style and title of the venerable pile. Nor is this strange, for the British people themselves have in the long lapse of ages and in the vicissitudes which the ages have brought cease to remember it. The late Dean Stanley, to whose eloquent and Paul's The view may, however, reasonably be doubted, for the saying "Crucifying Peter to redeem Peter" is traceable as far back as the twelfth century, and the phrase "Robbing St. Peter to clothe Earl Peter" is a younger and less similar location occurs in early French.

Stanley also adopted the opinion generally held that the proverb "Robbing Peter to pay Paul" took its origin from the diversion of certain of the abbey estates about 1550 from their original purpose to the benefit of the poor old Paul's. The view may, however, reasonably be doubted, for the saying "Crucifying Peter to redeem Peter" is traceable as far back as the twelfth century, and the phrase "Robbing St. Peter to clothe Earl Peter" is a younger and less similar location occurs in early French.

Form of the expression now in vogue was solidified and rendered current by the agitation started in the city of London proper, as distinct from the city of Westminster, where the abbey stands, — that the great Earl Peter should be buried in St. Paul's. To deprive the abbey in favor of its younger rival, of the distinction of enshrining the remains of the great statesman that in far more island story, England has produced would be to rob Peter to pay Paul. A vengeance, and the saint was so freely bandied about that, as a result, the saying "Robbing Peter to pay Paul" has ever since had an abiding place in the English language.

Queen Mother's Kindness

Lord Tennyson, the late poet laureate, used to relate a story showing the thoughtfulness of Queen Alexandra. It was on the occasion of a voyage with Mr. Gladstone, and many distinguished people were on board. Tennyson, related by a friend of his, read, "The Grandmother on board because the Princess of Wales asked for it." "I read it," said Tennyson, "in a cabin on deck. The princess sat close to me at one side and a young lady whom I didn't know on the other. The wind came through an open window, and the princess whispered, 'Put on your hat'; but I said I ought, if possible, to make myself bolder than ever before so many royalties. She said again, 'Oh, put it on!' so I did, and I heard afterwards that the King of Denmark's court fool, who was in the background (they really kept a court fool), remarked 'He may be laureate, but he has not learned court manners.' When I was done the ladies praised me and I patted the unknown one on the back by way of reply, and presently I found that she was the Empress of Russia."

"Had you any talk with the Queen?"

"Hardly any. He said he couldn't speak English. Perhaps he was disgusted at my patting his wife on the back. His head was up in the cabin ceiling as he walked about below."

Gypsy Wordless Language

To communicate with one another, gypsies now use letters—and they use the telegraph, too, when necessary—especially in this country. But the modern Romany also follows the "patteran," tracing the footsteps, or wagon tracks, of his friends on the road by the same method employed by his ancient prototype, reading directions where no words are written as clearly as the gorgio does a roadside signboard. But the patteran can be read by the gypsy only—it is hidden and secret, although it may be in plain sight, as a signboard is open and public. The patteran may be formed of sticks or stones or grass, placed cross fashion at the parting of roads in such manner that a gypsy would instantly notice and understand. To him it means much; first of all, the direction taken by Romany peddlers.

Birth Taxes in England.

The reign of Henry VIII. should have been a good one for the barbers. Men were then taxed for wearing beards and the tax was graduated according to the social standing of the wearer. A sheriff at Canterbury paid three shillings and fourpence for the privilege of wearing whiskers. Queen Elizabeth was even more stringent. She decreed a tax on every beard of over two weeks' growth. At one time there was a tax levied on births, a sliding scale being adopted. The child of a duke cost its father $150 in 1668, while the tax was only two shillings on the child of a commoner. Widowers and bachelors also were taxed.

Has His Own Value
Get to the deeper significance of a man, and you will understand that it is himself and has his own value. Let him leave his task undone, his word unaided, and undone and undone they will for ever remain. This is the proud thought that inspires a famous passage in George Eliot's "Stradivarius."

Naldo: What were God at fault for, violins, those absent?
Stradivarius: Yes! God were at fault for violins.
—If my hand slackened, I should rob God since.
He alone is fullest good.

The Quality of Mercy
See the woman. Why is the woman's hat trimmed with a nestful of little birdlings with the mother bird brood long there?

It is because the woman is merciful. The woman wished to trim her hat with the mother bird brood, but rather than to leave the birdlings starve she trimmed it with the whole family.
Mu-i it not feel lovely to be merciful like that?

GOV'T ROADS IN BAD CONDITION

DOUGLASS & HAERING

Have Auto Livery--First in The Pass--Being
Well Patronized

Edward Douglass and John Haering, of Lethbridge, have opened an auto livery in Blairmore and "honk, honk" is now quickly becoming a popular sound around these parts and indicates that the new enterprise is being well patronized.

Messrs. Douglass and Haering have the honor of being the first Pass residents to own and operate two large and first-class automobiles in the Pass. Those machines are of the Pallady and McLoughlin make, are very strong, well and comfortably built, have excellent motors and make good speed and can each accommodate six passengers.

Messrs. Douglass and Haering have been kept very busy since their arrival in the Pass in carrying passengers, and work from Coleman or Crow's Nest to Burmis.

We had the pleasure of being driven over the road between Coleman and Blairmore this week and would highly recommend to those who desire a quick and safe passage to any place in The Pass to give the automobiles a trial.

We regret to say, though, that the government roads along the Pass are in poor condition for carriage, much less than automobile use, and we would inform the government of the urgent necessity of giving us a road, between the several towns along the Pass over which vehicles may pass without the occupants lives being constantly in danger.

Now, that we are getting up-to-date so far as our own civic affairs are concerned and that the Pass has now an auto livery, the government should consider our case and repair our much neglected roads—thereby lessening the dangers and decreasing the number of accidents.

To be convinced that the government road along the Pass has been sadly neglected and is greatly in need of immediate repairs, one has only to see the road through the Frank slide when they would find a narrow and stony passage way walled on either side by large and sharp pointed boulders. Many accidents have happened on this road and numerous appeals were made to the Rutherford government to have this road repaired but apparently no attention was given us and the actions of that party in this regard were, to say the best, very inhuman.

We hope that the present government will soon repair their roads along the Pass and have some consideration for a long suffering public.

We congratulate Messrs. Douglass and Haering on this new enterprise for the convenience of the travelling people of the Pass. We wish them every success and hope that the time is not far distant when an auto garage, to be made necessary by a large number of automobiles in the Pass, will be established in Blairmore.

We are now enjoying the Indian summer.

BUILDING CON- TINUES BRISK

Brick and Cement Largely Used in Blairmore Buildings

BUILDERS ARE BUSY

More Business Men Coming in and Blairmore
Continues to Grow

As fast as time flies just so fast do buildings go up in Blairmore. The buildings are not all frame ones but brick, of our own make, is used in the construction of many of our large buildings.

Steve Novaria has just enlarged his building, which is now 50 feet long. Early in the spring, Mr. Novaria will still increase the size of his building and will widen it from 24ft. to 30ft. This will then be one of the best buildings in town.

Peter Niesfor has almost completed his cement building. This building is being erected at the North end of his old baker's shop and is 22x24, two stories and a full basement. Soon after the new building is completed, Mr. Niesfor intends to have the old frame building removed and to be replaced by a large brick structure leading back from the street to the cement building. The cement building will be used as a bakery where furnaces and ovens will be installed and the brick building will probably be used as a shop where bread, cakes, pies, etc. will be sold.

Another improvement in the shape of a business building will be commenced next week when contractors Frayer and Sinclair will commence pulling down the old building which was near Lemieux's barber shop and which is now occupied by Kall Bros., and erect a two-story frame structure for John S. McEhren, of Moyle, B. C., who purchased the lot from A. A. Sparks, last week, for the sum of $3,000. The building will be 25 feet wide and 45 feet long. The ground floor will be used as a store while the second floor will be fitted up for the purpose of holding lodge meetings etc.

Let us love! Let us enjoy the fugitive hour! Man has no harbor, time has no shores; it runs, and we pass.
